Fei Bi Chan

She/Her
Graduate Student Representative (KPAGS)
Co-Chair - Administration & Communications

Fei Bi is a third-year doctoral student in the University of Louisville Counseling Psychology PhD program. Of her salient social identities, Fei Bi is a Chinese-Malaysian, first-generation college student, Questioning, cisgender woman who immigrated to the US in 2017. Her research and academic interests center around the healing possibilities of decolonial and liberatory practices. As a student clinician, Fei Bi enjoys working with children, adolescents, and fellow immigrants who need support navigating life stressors, systemic barriers, and/or trauma. She is a student member of the American Psychological Association (APA; including APAGS, Div 17, and Div 45), the Asian American Psychological Association (AAPA), and the Kentucky Psychological Association (KPA). Fei Bi finds meaning in assuming service roles where she can support the needs of her community. Within the KPA, she served as their 2023 Legislative Fellow and Student Representative at the 2023 APA Practice Leadership Conference. She is also the current graduate student representative on the board of KPA and the chair-elect of AAPA's Division on International Students and Professionals. Outside of her professional identities, Fei Bi enjoys learning and sharing hula alongside Hui Kaululehua, snuggling with her three fur babies, cooking and eating delicious food, and spending time with her loved ones.

If you'd like to connect professionally or personally, you can contact Fei Bi at f0chan04@louisville.edu